The simple answer is the Reformed view of God's sovereignty is a lot closer to the view of God held by most of the world's greatest theologians than any other view of God. So Calvinism is the view of the world's greatest theologians. (There is a lot more to say about this, but I'll save that for a future blog post.) Also, all of the worst disasters in human history have been caused by those who say that God cannot use bad or evil people in his work.
