The D&D Primary Campaign Mode (PPM) makes it easy for DMs to run their campaigns in "real time" using a virtual tabletop application like Fantasy Grounds Unity (FGU). Fantasy Grounds Unity allows you to track your experience, create your characters and choose feats during the campaign. Characters are created using a special dice rolling mechanic. Feats can be added to your character at any time. In addition, RPG Aids are created to make the role playing experience as easy and enjoyable as possible. If you've ever wanted to play D&D, this is the place to do it. In the past, DMs ran multiple campaigns at once on multiple computers, keeping track of their experiences using printouts. This system was tedious and prone to error, often with characters and PPMs getting mixed up. Today, as the popularity of Dungeons & Dragons has grown, many DMs use an application called Fantasy Grounds Unity (FGU). Fantasy Grounds Unity allows the DM to create characters, track the number of experience points, determine feats for players, keep track of spell scrolls and other magical items, track experience levels of players, and a host of other functions. The PPM works just as any other DM has always done it. This was recorded in the Dungeons & Dragons Server Tuning Workshop and is based on information to determine the suitability of this product for your needs. Our customer service can't be there for you all the time, so please ensure you have tested the program thoroughly. If you have a problem with the product, please let us know. This is a complete D&D adventure. It runs from July 28th, 2013 to December 30th, 2013. This file can be saved and reopened in Fantasy Grounds Unity, but your PPM character can not be exported or imported for replay (because it is a live character). A women's rights official, speaking to AFP on condition of anonymity, said women registering for the scheme can drive for the first time, but aren't allowed to actually take their test. "There are 17,000 women who have begun taking the driving lessons." the official said, adding that they would continue taking lessons until their exams, "The vehicle will be theirs in a year." On lanuary 1, 2016. Iran will remove the driving ban for both men and women, after a law was approved this year saying it will take effect in the next Iranian calendar year. The law stipulates that men and women aged over 25 will be allowed to drive without a special test, but the women's rights official said such a programme was not yet in place. She said the initiative was purely voluntary and women could just as easily get a licence to drive for the first time at any of the country's thousands of auto-repair shops. The women were given the option of learning on a public bus or by taking individual lessons from a specialist, and they could practice driving in the same vehicle as a man for a year, she said. "So far, women have expressed their satisfaction with the new law and have been keen to begin their driving lessons," she added. It is not yet clear how official pointing to the Iran Welfare Organisation which will be responsible for "all necessary follow-up on the issue". "In any case, the organisation is trying to produce vehicles for the women before they (start to) drive on the roads," she said. (1-Sided and 2-Sided Collections) Super Jigsaw Puzzle: Generations - Paintings Puzzles (1-Sided and 2-Sided Collections) Whilst continuing our work on a super Jigsaw puzzle of all 48 asian nations, we are delighted to present Paintings. These pieces are wonderful works of art set within the environment of the artist's era, which we feel shows the eminent and advanced stages in oil painting and the evolution of the methods and style. Paintings has been made available in 1-Sided and 2-Sided Collections allowing you to select whichever combination you think best. Each box can be individually wrapped for gift giving or left as is for a custom built puzzle. Introducing Paintings... i Paintings was initially conceived and created by mosaics specialist, Perry Barrett, and designer, James Cox. Having suffered from persistent pain and a sickness of the stomach whilst working and living in Hong Kong on a project for the 1996 Olympics, Perry lost the will to continue and found it impossible to work in any traditional setting due to the pain. Paintings is a passionate love letter to the space that Perry saw as home whilst he was homeless. The work was the result of the creative renaissance that James observed in art and quality of life when Perry first arrived. Following a 3-month sojourn in Asia, James and Perry spent months being guided by traditional and contemporary artists around China, Korea, Japan and Korea. Over this period of time, they learned from the distinct and refreshing creatives of their respective countries and spent many hours developing his product. The final result is the culmination of decades of artistic and technical advances in oil painting, which we believe are much more envied and appealing than traditional Jigsaw puzzles. In jigsaw puzzles, this takes specific elements, such as 'true to life' portraitures and landscapes, which are imitative in nature. The production process, known as 'offset lithography', is a subtractive layering technique that results in 2-dimensional imagery with no dimensionality. Because of the duplicity in process and lack of dimensionality, the artists work can only be recreated in the near infinite ways. These less appealing qualities of featureless and repetitive pieces have earned great hostility from both fans and critics. With Paintings, we sought to expose the universal appeal of oil painting. By utilizing the passion, technique, style and ethos of
