For more information read hereA former Facebook manager says staffers had to delete content from the social media giant that was critical of former President Obama, a revelation that echoes claims made by the Obama administration. Gill Sperlich, who worked at Facebook from 2009 to 2012, said that a tech team she supervised was forced to remove content critical of Obama. "The team was overseen by a 'politics lead' who was told by the company's leaders that removing content 'about the President' – including anything with the word 'Obama' in it – was 'required,'
